Caruthers, California

Foreword

We are nearing the end of another school year, the commencement of a new life for graduating seniors, another step forward in education for the remaining students. In any case, whether we be graduating or continuing at Caruthers High, we have some happy memories we shall always treasure.

We, the yearbook staff have tried to enclose within these covers, memories of our 1956-1957 school year. We hope that these memories prove to be fond memories for you too, as you browse through this yearbook.

Senior Prophecy

Holy Cow! Here it is September 21st, 1977 and I haven't even started contacting my fellow classmates for our reunion next month. My partner and I have been busy picking cotton on Dale Sedoo's plantation in South Carolina and forgot all about our 20th year of freedom from Caruthers High.

With our bags packed and our Maxwell cranked up we hit the open road for the first name on our list. It was raining that morning and our canvas top leaked like the roofs of the old school buildings we attended our first two years at Caruthers. We stopped at a small motel on the outskirts of Dry Wells and were greeted by none other than Pauline Abernathy. She had inherited a chain of motels from her rich uncle.

We started before sunrise the next morning and passed through Palm Springs where Jo Ann Alvey was intertaining her movie pals. Among her guests were Geraldine Andris and Joe Armas who were resting after their new movie, "Singing In The Texas Rain." Nearby on lovely Salton Sea, Delose Ash and his family were busy preparing their yacht for the annual week end of cruising. It was all he could do to control the six boys of the Ash clan.

Our boat for Africa was to sail the next day so we bid Dee farewell and headed for San Diego. After several blasts of the fog horn we were on our way aboard the U.S.S. Raider, a ship built and named by the Queen Of The Seas, Carol Bachelor. We were lounging on the sun deck when who do you think we should see but those three musketeers, Donna Fries, Judy Rau, and Irene Bairos. They were sunning themselves near a group of handsome business men. It seemed they were on their way to try their hand at mining gold in the Bwango Bwango River in Keetover Africa.

We spent the evening in the card room where we tried to increase our fortune at the roulette wheel. Sandra Balch was singing "Hound Dog" on the platform. She had to share the spot-light with Hot Lips LaVerne Noia and her Hep Cats.

We placed our bets and waited for Sidney Belt to spin the Dice wheel. He did and the dice landed on number five. We watched as the pay girl, Janet Binkley, shoved a stack of chips down to the end of the table at the waiting hands of Leo Busch, alias, Poker Face Lec.

We guided our attention to the platform once more where the chorus girls were now in the spotlight. Gee, there's Velma Copeland, Shirley Denman, Mary Denniston, and Mildred Douglas. They were kicking to the tune of "Red Silk Stockings" and "Red Suspenders". Gosh, who would ever believe Louie Cardoza would wind up writing music. Among his hit tunes were: "Slipping in the Mud", "Red Faced Mama" and "Lonely Heartache Blues".

We reached Africa and immediately set out for the heart of the jungle with our two guides Jerry Chaffin and Devon East. They had left America because of the high gasoline taxes. It seems their Cadillacs burned two gallons a mile. We reached Yerba Yerba village about sundown and were greeted by Chief Juga Luba, better known as Norman Farmen. Larry Conard and Gerald Crawford were there on a big game expedition along with David Overstreet. They were after the man-eating Cannibal Witch doctor who had taken Juanita Jackson captive. She had been in Africa searching for the lost treasure of Tio Tio. We feasted on roasted wart hog, barbecued snail, filet of mud hen and poached parrot eggs prepared by the chief cook and pot washer Bill Dervishian.

Our first night was spent around the campfire listening to the drums and watching the Gula Gula Zula dancers. Our attention was caught by a tall muscular dancer and right away we recognized David, Bom Bom, Dixon.

After a hearty breakfast of scrambled Dodo eggs and African Zupo tarts we headed for the airport at Dumo Tumo and boarded a Super Constellation for Paris, France. We arrived after a two hour ride and were greeted at the airport by Ted Gibson, acting chauffeur for Count Dennis Dille. After a pleasant ride around gay Paree' we came to an abrupt stop in front of the Swan Mansion of Court Dennis, the 80th. Wanda Crawford, Dennis' wife, was serving tea for a group of nobles from England. They were Countess Faye Glass and Mademoiselle Irene Gonzales.

That evening we dined at Frans Zime and later took in the French Follies at Francisco's. We had a table near the front and noticed that Diamond Johnny Stout also had a front table. He had left his diamond mine in Africa on a business venture.

As the music began and the curtain was pulled aside, out strolled the pride of the French Follies, the Dimple Doodle girls. They included Margaret, Zowie, Jones, Mary, Bubbles, Jackson, Jo Ann, Oo La La, Johansen, Lorelee, Tootsie, Sedoo, and Maxine, Silver Slippers, Hopkins. After the show we went back stage and greeted our fellow classmates.

The fashions of Paris are really something. Chief designers Gary Slickamo Eggert and William Eagle Eye Lee proved that to us. They had just created a new bathing suit for Freckle faced girls and were having them modeled by Shirley Freckles Rattan. Those strapless evening gowns also caught our eyes. They were streamlined and were modeled by Elaine Sprouls.

We picked up an American newspaper and noticed the big name on the Sports page. Dave Floyd scored five TD's as Slippery Rock defeats Boulder Bend, 87, to 79. In light print in the middle of the same page was the following: Bob Loya, champion marble player from Caruthers, California will miss the coming Olympics because of a sore thumb. Seems he was picking grapes and disturbed a nest of yellow jackets.

We traveled by Steamer to the Peanut Islands where Goober King Gilbert Martinusen was supervising the loading of his prize peanuts. Seems he got tired of raising corn because it was only chicken feed. Rita Patakas, now Mrs. Thomas Shelton was taking care of the kids at the kindergarten while Thomas was pearl diving in Wanwona Lagoon.

While on the island we visited the Sleepy Hollow morgue where Willie Martin was practicing voodoo on a still who was found on the beach. Poor soul.

We hiked into the hearts of the island where the workers lived and found Janette Khan washing clothes while keeping an eye on her two sets of twins. Marvin Kelly and his new bride, Phyllis Phillips, were honeymooning and had stopped over to visit Dave Kizer who raised purebred fleas for Charles Miguel's flea circus. We left these happy friends and flew back home to the good old U.S.A. Troy Graham was piloting the craft and he invited us to accompany him during our journey. The two stewardess' were quite jealous and they turned out to be Karla Hodges and Mary Haley.

We reached New York in time for the world series and found the Yankees and Dodgers again battling in the fall classic. Randall Patrick was covering center-field for the Yankees. It was his first year in the majors after nineteen years in the minors. James Hill and Dorothy Harris were selling peanuts and pop corn when they saw us sitting in our box seat.

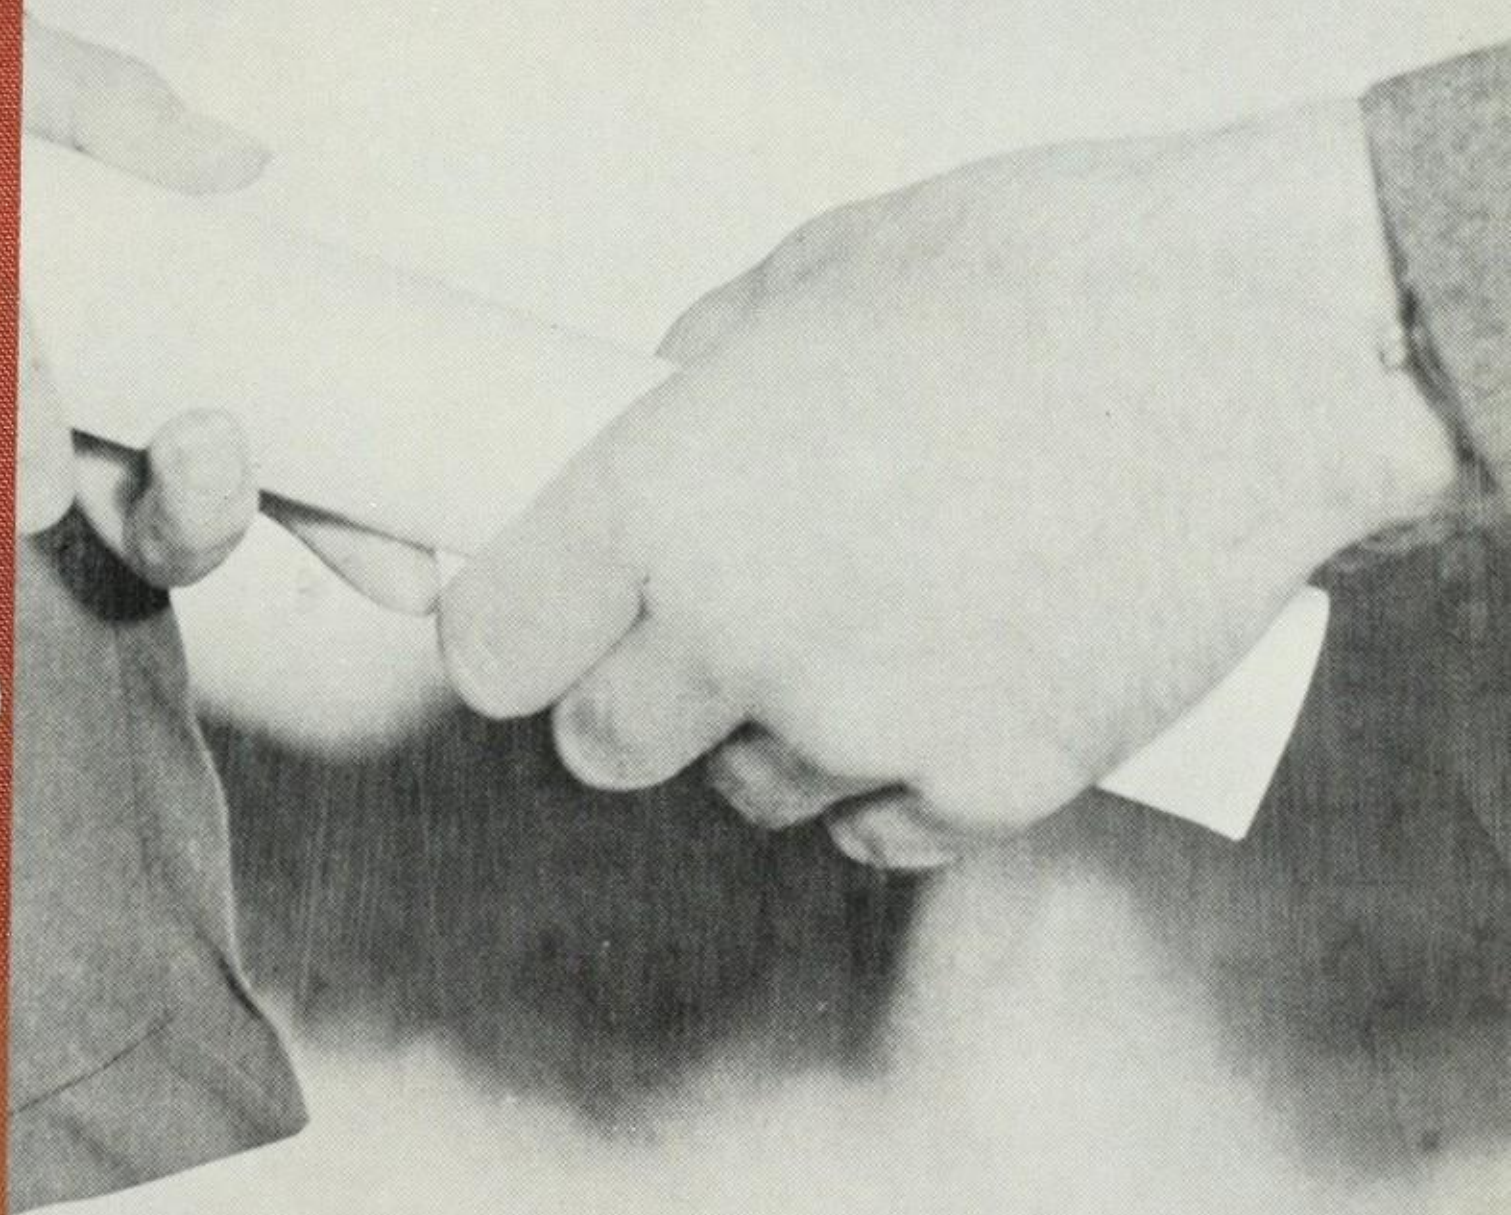

Slugger Darrell Trimble picked up a bat and strolled to the plate. He slashed at the first pitch and knocked it clear into Pierce Avenue. You guessed it. It was named after Bobby Pierce who had crashed the stock market with shares in the Elvis Presley recordings.

Bill Merrow was an attorney and was employed by Thomas Valentine who was suing the city of New York for damages to his Rolls Royce. It seems Thomas Workman ran into it with his street cleaner.

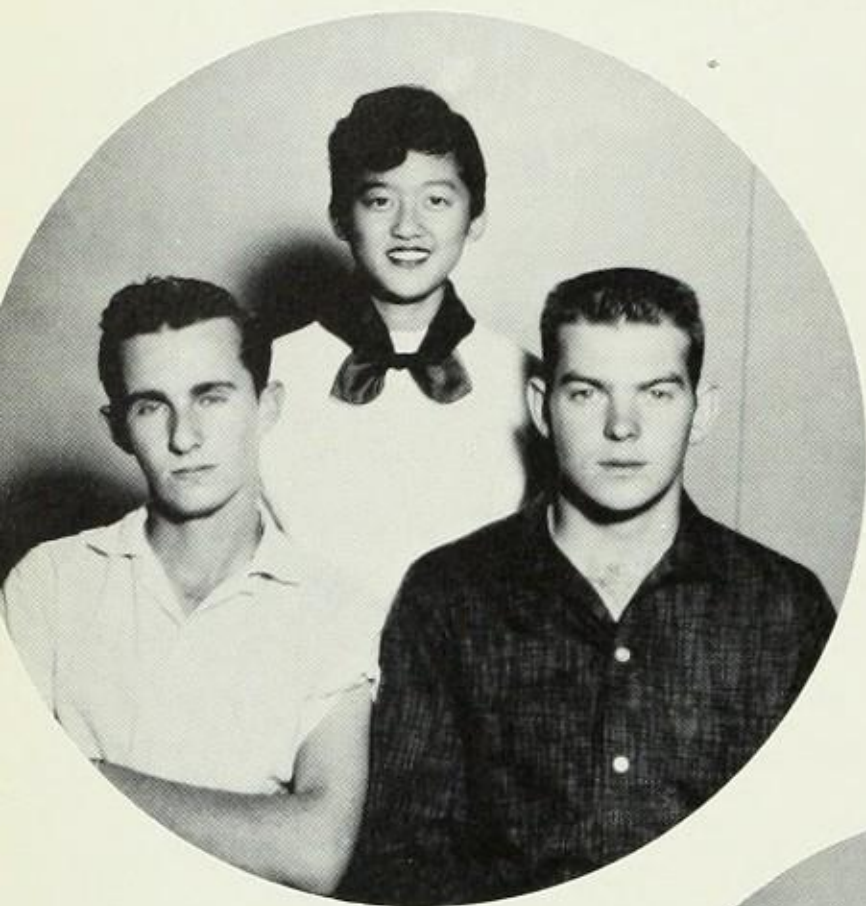

Tom's only excuse was that June Wilson winked at him and his attention was taken off his job. She had been working as private secretary for Billy Vick, president of You Old Penny Pinchers Loan Company. We took a ferry across the bay to Brooklyn and saw Earlene Percy trying to sell June Watanabe an automatic shoe polisher. An easy way to make a second million. June had been shining shoes and had heard about Earlene's invention from Phyllis Masterson, a prominent operator of those Masterson cool fuzz night slippers.

Say Rachel, what about Frances Maxey? We haven't heard about her lately. We checked the files and found her name under Senator Frances Maxey from the 10th district in California. She had been trying to shorten the school year from nine to six months but ran into a veto by the president. Oh yes, I'm Louise Noia and I married a winery king. We have five little wino's now. My partner Rachel Ortiz is working as a chief crusher at the Monmouth winery during the fall. Everyone was checked off the list so we now know the who's and what's of the class of "57".

Masterson Crowned SENIORS ORDER At Football Dance PROOFS OF PIX

Louise Noia
Editor

The Girls' C Society sponsored a football dance which was held on November 16 in our high school gym. The Girls' C decorated the gym which consisted of a large table in the center with a white drooping cloth and a scoreboard with our team's record. The dance provided the students with a pleasant evening and Miss Carolyn Sprouls and Masterson acted out a skit. For the most thrilling moment of the night our football queen, Betty Masterson, was crowned by the football captains David Overstreet and Dale Sedoo. Betty was elected by the football players' voting which was unanimous. Joyce Munday, Judy Rau, and Donna Fries also ran.

Caruthers will have an opportunity now to meet the winner of the Southern League in a playoff game. The thrills of the game were never so intense as when the Raiders won the title by a score of 23-0.

Driving down the greensward in the first quarter, East and Floyd by long runs netted the first touchdown. Floyd scored the counter, and Bob Loya kicked the point.

Before the quarter was out another drive bogged at the twenty yard line. A field goal was tried, and a big toe came through the points.

simmered along until the quarter, when the attack was on, after almost having been knocked out and still in and carried the ball for no point after was.

touchdown was the payoff. Healed the ball and carried it thirty yards into the end zone of Tom Shelton, racing the line to touch it and found the goal post. toe.

Coach Rollins off the Caruthers fans slowly realized that 1956 will go down in his history as the discovery of the atom.

VARSDTY FOOTBALL-1956

The Caruthers Raiders very early stamped themselves as a determined football squad by winning the opener against tough Central. From then on it was obvious that the showdown would be with Sierra, and the Raiders played tough defense to win 6-0.

On successive Saturdays they marched through, over, and around all North Sierra opponents to win the title, the first in many years.

Hard running backs teamed with swift charging linemen to carry the Raiders into the division playoff against strong Tehachapi, who finally subdued them 16-7.

This championship resulted from sheer determination and hard work. The achieved goal was the result of planning and sacrifice by both coaches and players.

Standouts in the line:

Jim Fincher-Guard
Dave Mealer-Tackle
Dale Sedoo-Center (Captain)
Tom Shelton-End
Gerald Crawford-Tackle

Outstanding Backs were:

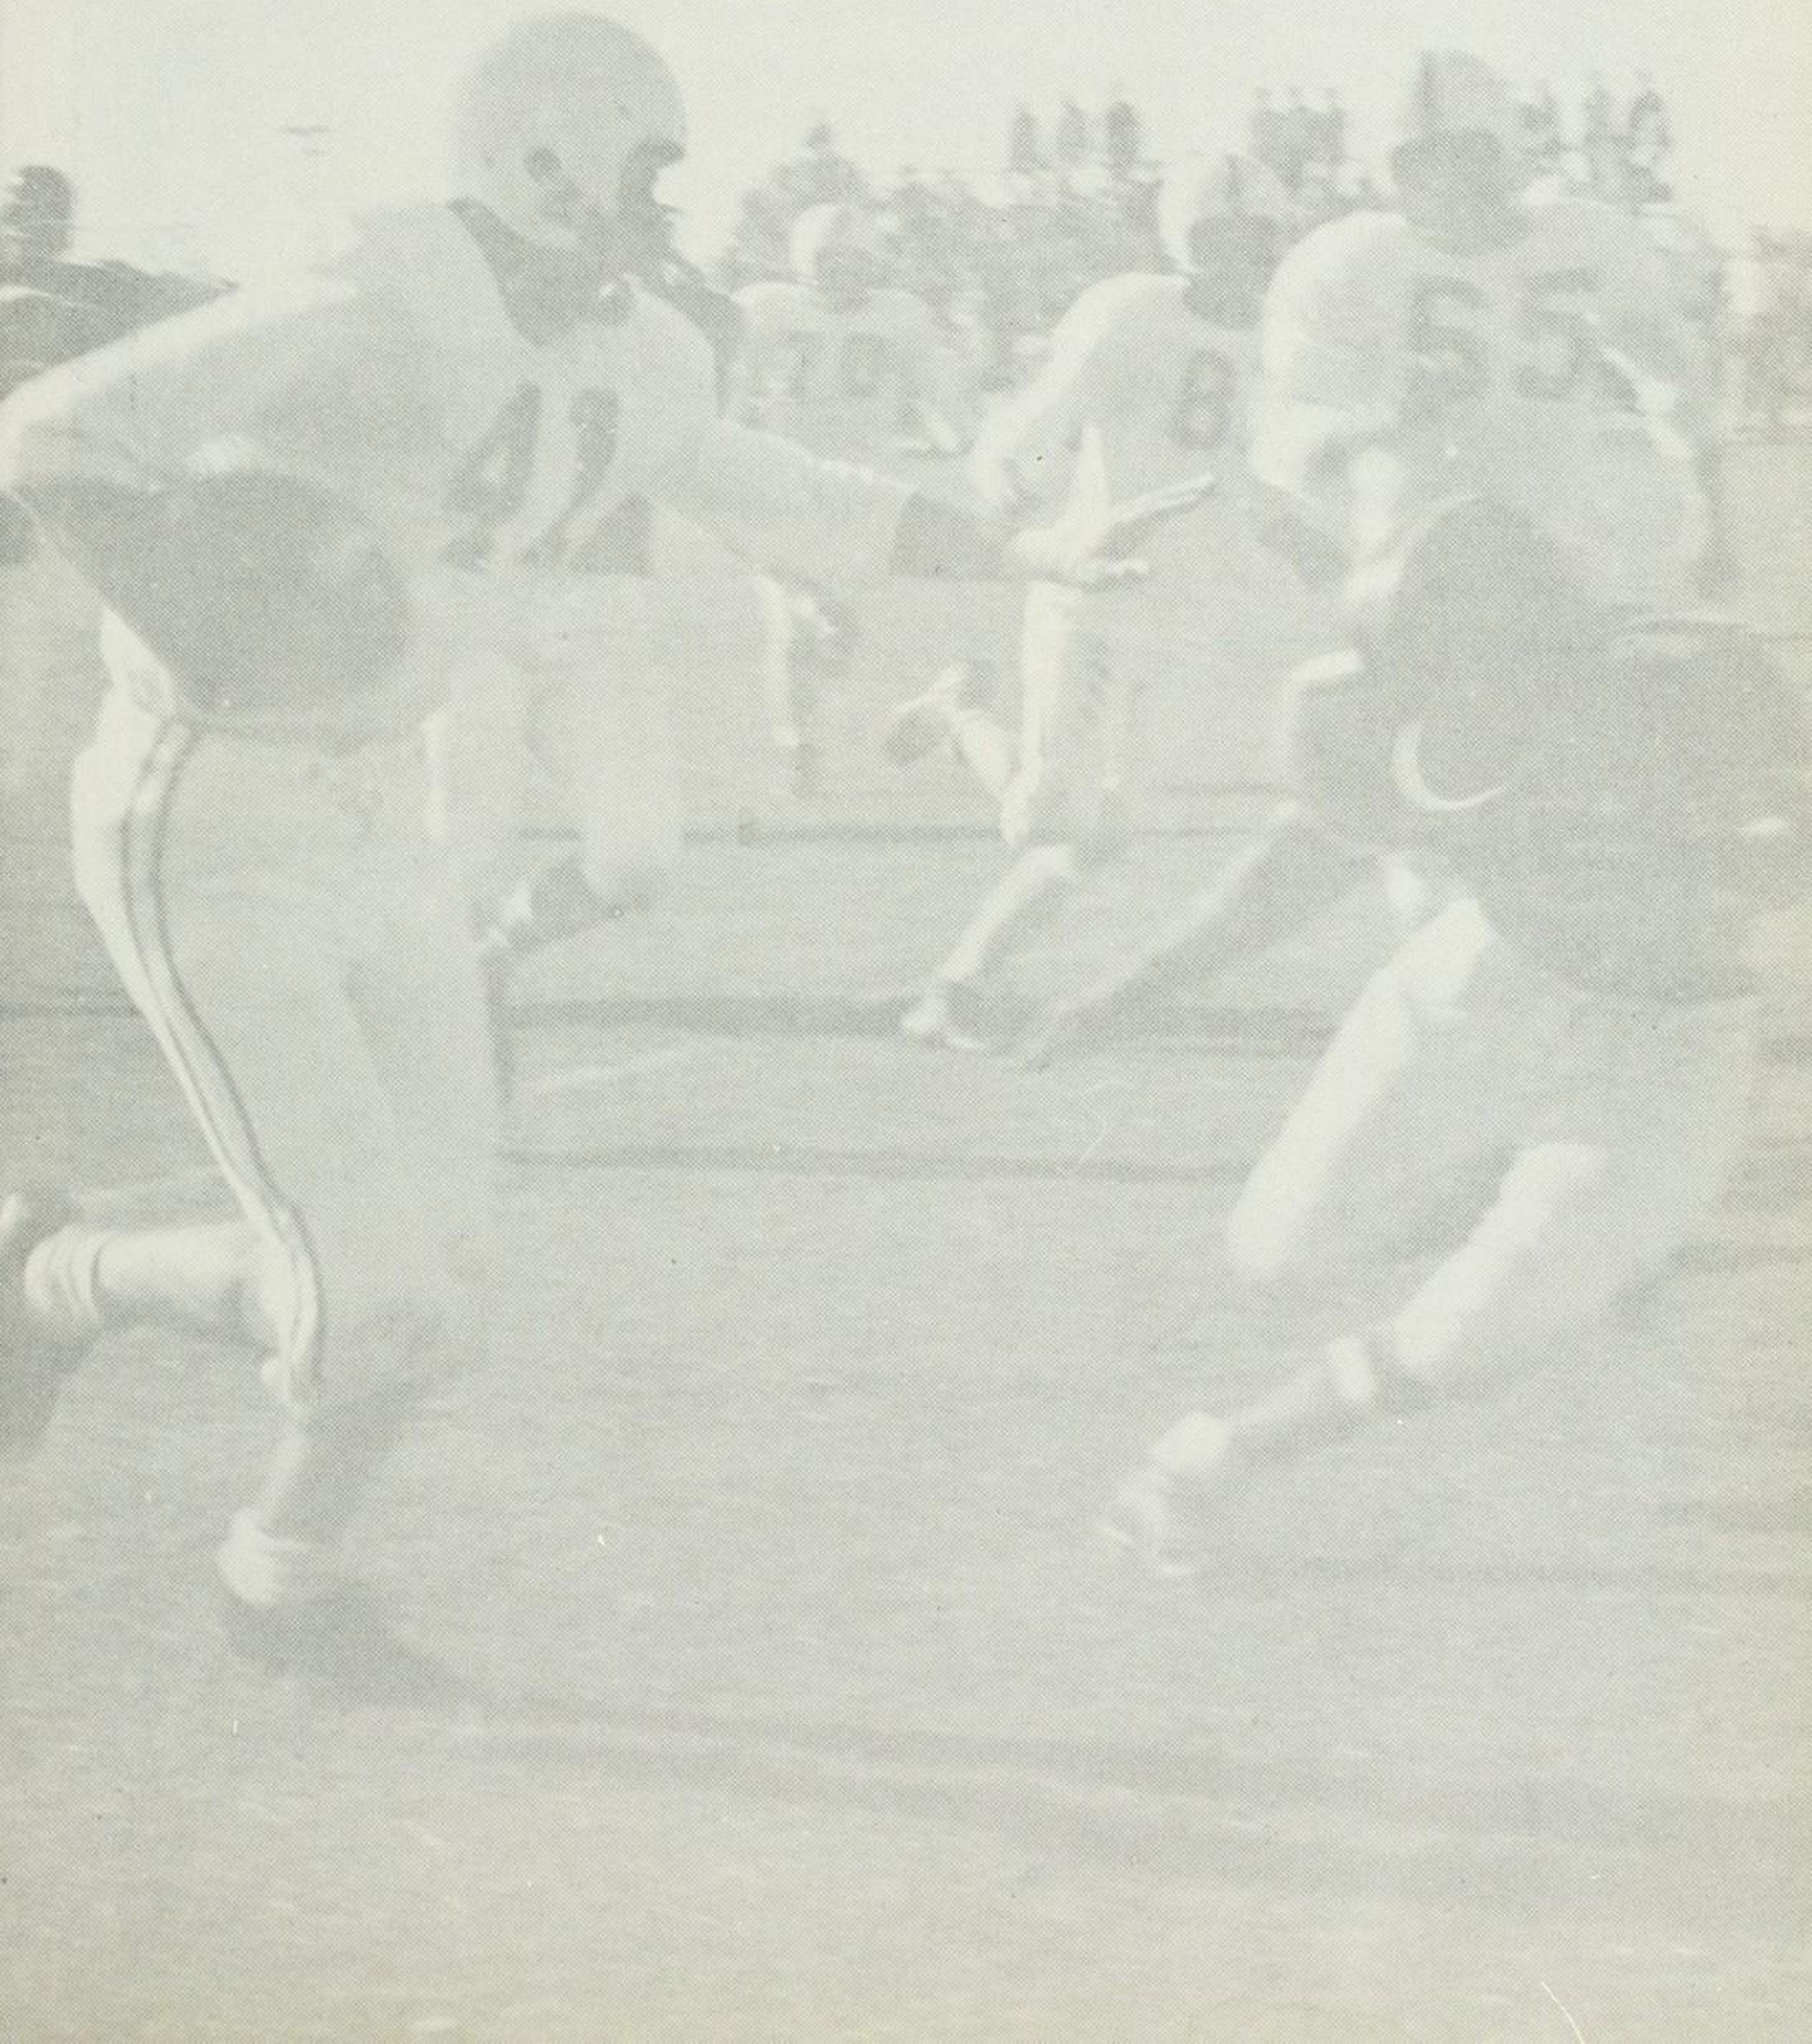

Dave Floyd-Fullback
Dave Overstreet-Quarterback (Captain)
Ted Gibson-Halfback
Randall Patrick-Halfback
Bobby Loya-Halfback
